ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

First and foremost I would like to appreciate God for granting me good health and divine protection all my life and in the course of writing this project report. The process of writing this project report was tasking and required the help of some of my fellow undergraduate students. I would like to acknowledge the insightful, exceptional and tremendous help of my research supervisor, Dr. John Olukuru. This work also benefited immensely from the academic insights of Dr. Yong Yoon. In finality, I acknowledge the help of my parents, Mr. Paul Mue and Mrs. Catherine Mue, for the selflessness, prayers and encouragement through my four years and funding my studies in this undergraduate degree.
